FOREWORD

A LISTING OF LANDS CONTROLLED BY THE MONTANA FISH AND GAME COMMISSION

This listing represents a current record of the lands controlled by the Montana Fish and Game Commission under patent, deed, lease, easement, agreement, or withdrawal.

GAME MANAGEMENT AREAS usually serve several purposes. Winter ranges for elk and waterfowl production areas are the predominant purposes of these areas. Other species of big game, as well as upland game birds and furbearers, are also considered in the management plans for these areas. Opportunities for public hunting and fishing exist at many of these locations as well as viewing and photographing game and nongame wildlife species.

FISHING ACCESS AREAS are located along lakes, streams, and rivers and assure permanent public access to prime fishing waters. Many of these areas are developed for appropriate outdoor recreational use and provide relief from heavy public use on private lands. Many of these areas also serve as habitat for various small game species.

STATE PARKS, MONUMENTS, AND RECREATION AREAS are comprised of areas with scenic, scientific, historical, archeological or recreational significance. These areas represent outstanding examples of the state's natural and cultural resources. The lands and appurtenant facilities are managed to provide maximum recreational opportunities to Montana's residents and visitors.

The other areas, including FISH HATCHERIES, ADMINISTRATIVE SITES and BIRD FARMS are small in size and specialized in the services which they provide.

Land ownership by the Fish and Game Commission began in 1908 with the Anaconda Fish Hatchery, and by 1929 a game bird hatchery was started at Warm Springs. Acquisition of game ranges began with the Judith Mountain area in 1937, and the Judith River area in 1940. After World War II, federal funding sparked the acquisition of the Sun River Game Range and other game areas followed. The state parks system was launched with the acquisition of the Lewis and Clark Caverns in 1937. The first public fishing access sites were purchased in 1958.

Federal funding for land purchases is available from several sources, usually on a 50-50, or a 60-40 basis. Federal participation requires compliance with strict and complicated federal regulations and the U.S. Government retains some control over any lands purchased with its money. The legislature, through its budgetary procedure, authorizes funds for land purchases. County commissions are consulted prior to any significant land purchases in their counties.

State law requires the Montana Fish and Game Commission to make payments in lieu of taxes. The commission-owned lands in each county are assessed and annual payment is made in the same amount as if the lands were privately owned. These payments in lieu of taxes are not required for lands totaling less than 100 acres per county, for lands used as bird farms or fish hatcheries, or for lands purchased by legislative apportionment from the state's general fund.

*NOTE: For comparative purposes, the payments for 1965 are included. The increased cost of current payments represents higher tax rates as well as an increase in the amount of Fish and Game lands.
